

Abstract

[0029] A method of producing a roll boot from an injection-moldable elastomer, comprising the following steps: injection-molding a basic member having a cylindrical portion and a widened portion; turning the basic member inside out; folding the widened portion outwardly so that it partially comes to lie outwards of the cylindrical portion, forming a roll wall.